FRANCHISE TAX PASSES. THE FORD BILL GETS THROUGH THE

SSEMBLY BY 104 TO 38.

Gov. Roosevelt Sends Another Emergency Message Regarding the Bill and Its Friends Secure Its Passage Promptly. ALEANY, April 28.-Gov. Roosevelt to-day scored a signal victory in securing the passage in the lower House of the Legislature of the Ford Franchise Tax bill, which proposes to tax corporate franchises as realty. The Governor was aided by Senator Ford and Assemhirmen Fallows, Slater, the sponsors for the in their respective houses, and by Messrs. Davis and Henry, but much of the success of day is due to the personal efforts of the Governor to have enacted into law his plan for the taxation of corporate franchises,

Learning that the message which he had sent to the Assembly last night urging the immedisteronsideration of the measure had been disregarded in the turmoil which hung about last evening's session, he promptly transmitted another message this morning, which imme-diately upon its receipt in the Assembly was listened to attentively. It was the last stray which broke the back of the opposition to the measure. Long before the session began this morning there were hurried conferences among the members regarding the disposition of the bill and not until the roll on the question of final passage had been nearly completed did it appear that the Governor had won a great political fight. The Ford bill was the first one on the calendar Assemblyman Otto Kelsey of Livingston, who presided during the stirring scene of last night, was again in the Speaker's chair when the flual session of the year was called to order. Mr Nixon's indisposition prevented him from acting as Speaker to-day, as he had hoped to The gavel had hardly sounded when Private Secretary Youngs was announced and a message from Gov. Roosevelt received. It was immediately handed down from the desk and sudibly rend by the clerk. It was brief, but strictly to the point:

author rend by the olerk. It was brief, but strictly to the point:

"Executive Chamber, and the strictly to the point:

"To the Assembly: I learn that the emergency message which I sent last evening to the Assembly on behalf of the Franchise Tax bill has not been read. I therefore send hereby another message upon the subject. I need not impress upon the Assembly the need of passing this bill at once, I has been passed by an averwhelming yote through the Senate. A large majority of the Assembly have signed a netition asking that it be put through. It establishes the principle that hereafter corporations holding franchises from the public shall pay their just share of the public burden. It is too late to try to amend on the public burden. It is too late to try to amend on the public burden in the book and the measures that has been before the Legislature this year I cannot too strongly urge its immediate passage. Theodore Rooskyelt."

The reading of the message was the signal for applause from the advocates of the bill. The members who expected a recurrence of the exciting scenes of last night began crowding into the well of the chamber. The aisles were blocked when the Speaker ordered that the well be cleared and that the members return to their scats. Routine business was then disposed of, Assemblyman Miles of St. Lawrence county uttered a vigorous protest against the manner in which the lower house had treated the legislation of his Senator (Malby, asserting that the bill of the latter, which was a special order for yesterday had been placed at the end of to-day's calendar. His protest availed nothing except to indicate his loyalty to the Senator from his county. He was soon quested, as was Assemblyman Maher, who also had a grievance relative to the failure to consider a bill in which he was interested, and Leader Alids announced that there was nothing in order but the consideration of the franchise measure. measure.
Alids declared that the Governor's mes-

Mr. Slarer moved the Ford bill to a third resding Assemblyman Kelly, Democrat, of Albany objected. Under an agreement, it was decided to continue the argument on second reading, and, at its conclusion, to advance the bill and come to a final vote upon it. Assemblyman Trainor then took up the argument, asserting that the Ford bill was one the people of the State desired, and that the lawyers of the State who had been consuited upon the question had little faith in the Rodenbeck bill accomplishing the purposes of a franchise tax measure. Assemblyman Greenwood of Wayne county uttered an emphatic protest against the bill. He deemed it too important legislation to be jammed through so late in the season. It was a matter which needed through consideration.

It will relieve every other locality in like proportion and will bring into the State treasury from five to six millions of dollars annually. In my opinion the scheme of taxation of public franchises insugurated in the State of New York by this bill will commend itself to the legislators of other States, and will be copied universally."

STATE TAX RATE IS 2.49 MILLS, Explanation by Senator Higgins Why It Is Really a Low Figure. ALBANY, April 28.-One of the many actions of the Legislature which closed its session today was the fixing of the tax rate for the fiscal year beginning on Oct. 1 next at 2.40 mills. The tax rate fixed by the last Legislature was 2.08. which raised $10,186,158. This year's tax rate will bring into the State Treasury $12,-640,228. The money to be raised by the tax rate fixed to-day will be divided:

For general purposes, including the State care of the insane, $6,398,260; for free schools. $4.111.881; for the maintenance and ordinary repairs of the State canals. $913,751; for new work on the State canals, $203,055; for the payment of interest on the canal debt. $659. 980; for extraordinary repairs to the State canal, $355,347. 1980; for extraordinary repairs to the State canal, $355,347.

Senator Higgins, the Chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, is entitled to credit for the low tax rate which the Republican Legislature presents to the people of the State this year. The total appropriations for the year amount to $21,231,012, which is $1,000,000 less than last year. Had there been the same surplus in the Treasury this year as last the rate would have been lower, despite the fact that Gov. Roosevelt has insisted that all of the State departments should be placed upon a sound financial basis, which has caused the payment of nearly a million dollars of deficiencies credited to the various State departments.

The bill fixing the tax rate was passed by both houses of the Legislature to-day. When it came up in the Senate an explanation of the various Stais departments.

The bill fixing the tax rate was passed by both houses of the Legislature to-day. When it came up in the Senate an explanation of the basis upon which the rate was lixed was made by Senator Higgins.

Considering the obstacles which the financial leaders of the Legislature had to contend with in keeping down the tax rate, "said Senator Higgins. "the rate of this year is more remarkable than that of last year, which was the lowest legitimate tax rate since 1856. Then we had a large surplus, which had been gathering in the State treasury from year to year, as a basis upon which to work. This year we had no such basis, but rather about $1,000,000 of deficiencies, which had been accumulating during the last ten year in the various State departments and in some instances had been handed down as legacies from our Democratic predecessors in office.

Notwithstanding these obstacles, by the exercise of strict economy we have so reduced the appropriations as to be able to again give the people of the State a remarkably low tax rate. The old stock in trade expression of political opponents of the party in power with which a low tax rate is greeted, that the assessments upon property have been sufficiently increased to make up the difference, will not hold this year, as the increase in assessments for the year under which the rate had been determined have been less than the average increase for some years past. The rate given is a legitimate one in every sense and represents the economical work of the party in power in this State."

Of the moneys appropriated by the Legislature this year, $9.673,000 is to be raised by indirect taxation, of which $3.400,000 will be received from the tax oncorporations: $2.000,000 on account of the inheritance tax, and $4.200,000 from the liquor tax law.

LEGISLATURE GOES HOME. SESSION ENDS WITH THE CUSTOMARY

SPEECHES AND PRESENTATIONS. The Address of Speaker Nixon Read by the Clerk Because of the Speaker's Indisposition-Officials Summoned Before the Bar of the House to Receive Gifts.

ALBANY, April 28.-The end of the legislative session of 1899 was peaceful and harmonious, in pleasing contrast to the stormy cenes which were enacted in the Assembly last evening. In the Senate the last session of the legislative year was little different from the ordinary daily session. A pleasant diversion, however, was a speech by the President pro tem., Senator Ellsworth, in which he thanked his Republican colleagues for their hearty cooperation with him in the work of the Senate, and expressed his indebtedness to Sen ator Grady and the minority, which Mr. Grady led, for the manly way in which all the battles had been conducted and for their interest in expediting the work of the Senate without need a fillbustering, often common to minorities.

In return Senator Grady expressed for the ninority its gratitude for the kindly way in which it had been treated by the majority which, appreciating that it had the votes, did not use them unnecessarily in trampling upon the minority, their legislation receiving liberal disposition of Speaker Nixon alone cast a cloud over that body. When the Assembly convened for its final session the flags of the nation and State, the coat of arms of the latter, and gay decorations of bunting bespoke the closing hours of the year's session of the lower branch of the State Legislature.

During the intermission which preceded the presentation of remembrances to the officers of the Assembly, a regular custom of that band. When the routine work of the day was cleared away and the excitement attendant upon the passage of the Ford Franchise bill had subsided. Speaker Nixon, who, acting under the orders of his attending physician. Dr. Willis MacDonald of Albany, had remained on a couch in the Speaker's chamber pending the discussion of legislative problems, assumed the chair and, handing to Clerk Archie Baxter the speech which, if in good health, he would have delivered, ordered the same to be read to the Assembly. This marked the official closing of the session of 1858. The speech of Speaker Nixon, which was listened to attentively, was:

"Gentlemen of the Assembly: The hour has arrived when by the concurrent resolution of the Senate and Assembly this Legislature adjourns without day. Our record is made and before our constituents, and it is unnecessand before our constituents, and it is unnecessary to give an extended account of our enactments at this time. Yet, as we part to-day, I feel that, it is justive due you to record the observation that this has been a conservative body, laboring diligently for the interests of the people and for economy in public affairs.

"The tax rate is higher than last year, but it clears up all deficiencies, and I congratulate you and the people you represent that by your wise legislation at this session no deliciencies can be created in any state department in the future. You have imposed upon every department the salutary rule to law as your general to the salutary rule to law as your general contents.

The law for the protection of the primary elections of political parties has also been perfected after consultation with those who have given close attention to the subject with a view to the purification of political methods.

"A large proportion of the time of this seasion has been devoted to bills concerning affairs in Greater New York. Every citizen of the State is proud of our imperial cire, and we believe that the laws we have enacted are for the best interests of its people. Exectally the laws to give rapid transit from the Battery to Harlem; to protect the people on Amsterdam arenue from the dangers of multiplied tracks for electric cars; to increase the salaries of faithful and competent schoolteachers; to abute the great evil of manufacturing in unantiaty tenement houses; to guard women faithful and competent schoolteachers; to abate the great evil of manufacturing in unsanitary tenement houses; to guard women and children from dangerous employments, also the law to tax valuable franchises, will be approved, in fact they have already been approved by the voice of the public press.

"I am glad to note also that our agricultural interests have not been neglected. The beet sugar industry and the dairy interest have had desired legislation, and the liberal appropriations for the State experimental farms and for scientific investigation and teaching from the College of Agriculture at Cornell University have been continued. The Burcau of Agriculture will also be efficiently maintained with its support of fairs and the enforcement of protective laws. The Speaker was attended by Dr. MacDonald, his indisposition of last night leaving him weak and nervous. Mr. Palmer, on behalf of the members of Assembly and all connected with it officially, presented the Speaker with a life-size portrait of himself, which is to adorn the Assembly parlor along with previous Speaker of the House, also with a solid sliver service and a silver pitcher, the latter the gift of the employees of the Clerk's desk.

LAST DAY OF THE SESSION.

Many Important Measures Disposed Of at

ALBANY, April 28. Nothing of importance occurred in the Senate to-day beyond the passage of the Supply bill, containing an appro-priation of $50,000 for the expenses of the Mazet the administration of New York committee, which is investigating city departments. Senator Grady endeavored to have the appropriation stricken from the bill, but his motion was lost by a party vote of 27 to 10. The bill afterward passed the Assembly. It also contains an appropriation of $4,000 to pay the counsel of the Fallows special committee which investigated the New York county Surrogates' office. Otherwise the Senate session was listless and was onfined to the passage of bills upon the regular calendar. The Assembly to-day passed probably the most important legislation of the year. After a brief debate the Assembly passed Senator Stranahan's bill amending the law establishng the Metropolitan elections district by authorizing the appointment of 200 instead of 100 additional deputies by Superintendent McCullagh without regard to political affiliations, and generally extending his powers. The Democrats started to make a protracted opposition to the bill, as they did to the original enactment of this law, but after Leader Palmer, Mr. Trainor and Mr. Finn had expressed their opposition, the minority desisted and the bill was passed by a vote of 83 ayes to 53 noes.

The Assembly unanimously passed the resolution of the Senate Taxation Committee carrying out Gov. Roosevelt's auggestion that a joint committee of the two bodies, to consist of three Senators and four members of the Assembly, be appointed by the respective presiding officers of the two houses to inquire into the condition of the State tax laws, and to propose a revision of the same to the next Legislature. Leader Palmer attempted to amend the resolution by having five members of the Assembly appointed on the committee in order that two Democratic members might be placed on the committee from the lower house, but was unsuccessful, the amendment being defeated. The Senate to-day defeated Mr. Gardiner's bill amending the Penal Code relating to convergence of female convicts, providing that when any female is sentenced to imprisonment in any institution of the State she shall be accompanied to the place of confinement by a female attendant. The Senate also killed Mr. Collier's bill authorizing the New York cit Board of Estimate and Apportionment to provide that the Judges of the Supreme Court of the Second Judicial district shall receive the same compensation as those of the First Judicial Department.

The check was sent to Burlington and was returned accompanied by a letter stating that the man was evidently the same person who was travelling over the country floating worthless checks for large amounts many of which had been foolishly eashed b banks. The letter said that the man is be ame compensation as those of the First Judicial Department.

The Senate to-day passed Assemblyman Snyder's bill, appropriating $50,000 for the acquisition by the State of lands in the Catskill Forest Preserve. The bill provides that the lands can be acquired by the State only by purchase upon an agreement with the owner and not by condemnation.

Assemblyman Slater to-day presented and had adopted in the Assembly a resolution calling for the appointment by the Speaker of a committee of nine members to inquire into the advisability of securing additional lands for the Adirondack Park by the State. It directs the committee to inquire into what shall constitute the proper boundaries of the State Park; the lands of the State which are without the park which should be exchanged for lands within the reserve, and generally into how all the game laws of the State are enforced.

Speaker Nixon's indisposition prevented the many of which had been foolishly cashed by banks. The letter said that the man is believed to have been a deserter from the United States Cavairy stationed at Camp Ethan Alleu. A messenger was sent to 141 Warburton avenue, but no one of the name of John Michaels was known there.

A week ago the Westchester Trust Company received a check for $275, drawn on the Burlington Trust Company and signed Charles Clark in favor of the drawer. The man who left it said he would return in a few days for the money. He said his address was 273 Nepperhan avenue. The check was returned marked 'no good,' with word from the Burlington people that they had received four limitar checks within twenty-four hours. Yesterday the Citizens' National Bank had 'returned to it another check for $275 drawn by "Charles Clark" and indorsed "Frank Dorian." It had been deposited last week. The Citizens National Bank authorities informed the police at once. They went to work on the case and this led to the arrest of to-day.

Frank Dorian, whose name is forged to the check deposited in the Citizens' National Bank, says that the prisoner's name is John Michaels and that he has already served a term in the Elmira Reformatory. The prisoner is of slight build, medium height, with sailow complexion and very black hair. In his possession was found a check book of the Burlington Trust Company, more than $50 in banknotes and considerable jeweiry. He told the police that he comes from a wealthy family in Kansas and that he can easily prove his innecence. He will be arraigned in court to-morrow morning, when all the bank officials with whom he is believed to have deposited checks will be on hand to identify him.

into how all the game laws of the State are enforced. Speaker Nixon's indisposition prevented the appointment of the committee to-day, as did it also the naming of a committee of three upon a motion of Assemblyman witters, which was adopted, providing for a committee of three to investigate the spread of tuberculosis among cattle in this State and to suggest remedial legislation to the next Legislature by which this disease can be checked.

Senator Marshall's Atlantic Avenue Tunnel bill was called up in the Assembly late to-day by Mr. Torborg and passed by that body. This allows the Municipal Assembly of New York city to grant a tunnel franchise for fifty instead of twenty-five years, as is provided by the Greater New York charter. The bill is in the interest of the tunnel corporation controlled by the Long Island Railroad Company, which proposes to construct a tunnel railroad under the East River from Atlantic avenue in Brooklyn borough to Cortlandt street in Manhattan borough.

Senator Malby's bill fauthorizing the construction of storage reservoirs in the Adiron-dacks and throughout the forest preserve, by which the flow of water in the Adiron-dack streams was to be regulated for the benefit of the Adiron-dack lumbermen, irrespective of its effect upon the State lands and the preservation of the forest, was killed in the Assembly med Gherardi Davis, Henry and Fallows, who pointed out the dangerous teatures of the bill so satisfactorily that the Assembly declared against it by giving Sinegative votes to 54 in the affirmative.

If had been announced that Senators Coffey and Rice had voted for Assemblyman Hill's bill exempting from taxation improvements upon ocean bulk head property around Staten Island. This was an error, as both voted against every motion to advance the bill in the Senate.

BOLD BROOKLYN ROBBERS.

Four Successful Burgiaries on a Single Block Within Ten Days. Within the past ten days there has been a series of bold and successful robberies in the triangular block extending from the junction Brooklyn The first marauding descent was made on J. J. Skelly's clothing store, at 572 Fulton street. Entrance was effected through one of the rear windows, from which three iron bars had been removed. Several pieces of cloth and a quantity of silk trimmings and other material, valued at $500, were carried off. Two nights later the other material, valued at $500, were carried off. Two nights later the hat store of Mr. Selier, at 23 Flatbush avenue, was broken into in a similar manner and stock valued at $300 stolen, and on the night following the robbers got into the cellar of Grinnell's big paint establishment, le and 21 Flatbush avenue, and secured more plunder. The police, who had been notified of the original depredations, had mesawhile kept a close surveillance over the invaded territory, but somehow the burglurs cluded them. The last predatory visit was made on Monday night, when a second descent was made on the Fulton street clothing store and Mr. Skelly's stock further depleted to the extent of $200. This time the robbers reached the store from the cellar, which they entered by unfastening the cover in the yard. It is supposed that the burglars on each occasion obtained access to the rear of the houses by passing through a little alleyway alongside a big warehouse and safe deposit building opening on Flatbush avenue, and this is now carefully guarded at night.

In accordance with a rule recently established at the Mulberry street headquarters, these as well as all the other Brooklyn robberies in which no arrests have been made have not figured on the regular daily morning returns brought in by the various Captains at the borough headquarters. physicians.

If he resigned, the Governor said, deserving officers could be promoted. The Governor concludes from Colton's refusal of the Colonelev that he does not care to remain connected with the regiment. It is intimated that Colton is drawing double pay.

Colton is a Republican, and Republicans here insist the Governor's action is a political move to boost along Major Eager, a Populist, who left here as a Second Lieutenant and has been jumped over many officers.

GOV. ROOSEVELT PLEASED.

DISCUSSES THE MEASURES PASSED BY THE LEGISLATURE.

Not One New Law Put on the Statue Books Which Is Unworthy of a Place There-Rapid Transit, Franchise Tax, Sweatshop, Primary and Elective Franchise Bills. ALBANY, April 28.-Gov. Roosevelt was asked his afternoon to speak of the net results of the legislative session. He said:

'I feel that we have every reason to be exseedingly well satisfied with the result of the session. There has not been a single law put on the statute books which ought not to have been put on, nor a single appointment made which ought not to have been made, and there has been a very substantial sum of achieve ment to the credit of the Legislature. Civil Service bill is the best that has been enacted by any State or by the nation. The Rapid Transit bill and the Long Island Railrons basis, and the Repid Transit bill especially a ast gives us the chance to secure rapid transi in the city of New York, without alienating the city's right to a franchise which may be of in calculable value.

"The Franchise Tax bill marks a step of the weightiest importance in the policy of seeing that hereafter the corporations getting great advantages from the public shall bear their share of the public burdens. The two Costello bills mark the beginning of the first effort to exercise real and intelligent supervision over industries carried on in tenement houses and the first serious attempt to do away with the sweatshop evil entirely.
"The passage of the bill authorizing the payment of Messrs. Fox and MacFarlane insures the proper disposition of the prosecutions against any canal officials, if such there be, who have been guilty of fraud or misconduct, and the way that Col. Partridge and State Engineer Bond are conducting their offices is a guarantee that no fraud will hereafter be pergineer Bond are conducting their offices is a guarantee that no fraud will hereafter be perpetrated with impunity. I am well pleased with what has been done in legislation and I feel that we have reason to be amply satisfied with the work of the various administrative departments. Steps have been taken, moreover, to render crime against the ballot in New York city more difficult to perpetrate and easier to punish.

"Finally, I feel the Legislature deserves great credit for the way it has succeeded in keeping down the tax rate in spite of the way thad to make good various deficiencies which it had inherited and not created. The salaries of the school teachers of New York have at last been made what they should be, so that we no longer endure the scandal of inflicting grinding penury on the people who more than any others are responsible for the unbringing of the citizens of the next generation. The National Guard is steadily being raised to the highest point of efficiency.

"The Primary Election bill has been put through in better shape. I took the view in this connection that the man who is to be a valuable member of a political organization will not be asliamed to have his name published. There is now a real measure of primary reform. In the Amsterdam Avenue bill we acted with substantial equity in righting a very grave wrong."

After concluding his remarks the Governor

we acted with substantial equity in righting a very grave wrong.

After concluding his remarks the Governor discussed the thirty-day bills left in his hands. He said there were several hundred of them, and that he proposed to select the most important for earliest consideration. Among this class of bills he mentioned one passed for the abolition of the indeterminate sentence in use in the sentencing of convicts to the Elmira Reformatory. He said there might be things to be said on both sides of the subject and that he should examine the question closely. He wants, he says, full information about it from those in favor and those opposed. The Governor says that he will accord hearings on some of the bills left in his hands, and that a schedule of dates of such hearings will be announced later.

Consul Cunningham Fears That She Has WASHINGTON, April 28.-The State Department has received a letter, dated April 4, from Consul Cunningham at Aden, Arabia, referring to the yacht Norna, owned by N. J. Weaver of the Atlantic Yacht Club. The Consul says that he has gained information which makes it morally certain that the Norna is the same yacht that the Briske towed. She left Port Said on Jan. 5, 1809, and Suez on Jan. 25, and was towed for China waters. Since that date he towed for China waters. Since that date he cannot ascertain that any one except the Briske has seen or heard of her or any of her passengers. Continuing, he says:

"She has not turned in here yet, and the supplies left here for the Norma by the Briske have neither been called for nor ordered elsewhere. A rumor came to me two days since that two small lifeboats had been found just off Djibouti a week ago. It also said they were picked up by a native 'Cuggalon,' but I could find no one who knew anything for certain. If there is anything in the report I will get the benefit of it soon, as I have written across, as well as asked the Post Office here to inquire.

"Should any news come I will advise at once, but I fear she is lost. Should she be driven ashore all would fare just as badly from the native tribes along the Red Sea as to

from the native tribes along the Red Sea as to be wrecked outright."
